U. Boccioni

Several miles beyond the station, the road crosses the mountain range, and the view is magnificent. The mountain peaks are covered with snow, and the valleys are filled with dense forests. The scenery is truly beautiful and well worth the journey.

The road is well maintained and the scenery is truly beautiful. The mountain peaks are covered with snow, and the valleys are filled with dense forests. The scenery is truly beautiful and well worth the journey.
